

JDC LIBRARY UPDATE

March 2024

»»» News and Notes from 600

FEBRUARY

books borrowed »»» 675

librarian/youth orientations

»»» 19

book requests »»» 26

library cards issued »»» 6

Welcome, Vanya!

You probably already know Vanya from yoga, reader's theater, and the other creative programs she does with youth in the LUs. We are thrilled that Vanya is now also a Library Page for the JDC program! She will assist the Librarian with shelving books, tidying the library, repairing books, and other tasks. Not to worry: Vanya will continue to bring her engaging programs to the kids. Help us welcome her to this new role when you see her in the library!

Tucson's first free public library opened in 1901 in the building currently occupied by the Tucson Children's Museum. Click here for more of the story.

Carnegie Library, circa 1905. Image courtesy of the Arizona Historical Society/Tucson AHS24786.

"If you don't like to read, you haven't found the right book."

— J.K. Rowling

Thank you for your ongoing support of reading and literacy at JDC!

stephanie.mitchell@pima.gov